

HUMAN RIGHTS PROTECTION CELL

The Human Rights Protection Cell (HRPC) is referred to a unit or division within an organization, often a government agency or law enforcement body, dedicated to the protection and promotion of human rights. The specific structure and responsibilities of an HRPC may vary depending on the country or organization in question.

The primary objective of a Human Rights Protection Cell is to ensure the safeguarding of human rights and to address any violations that occur within its jurisdiction. This may involve investigating complaints of human rights abuses, conducting research on human rights issues, monitoring the human rights situation in the country or region, and providing assistance and support to victims of human rights violations.

Vision

To educate and empower students on Human Rights and enable them to exercise their rights and also respect and support the rights of others.

Mission

By supporting each other in and out of the college campus through the awareness of Human Rights and Protection of Human Rights by monitoring and accessing the observance of human rights through education and training the students on human rights issues.
